Call to Worship: Come bless the Lord, all you servants of the Lord. Lift up your hands to the holy place and bless the Lord. May the Lord bless you from Zion He who made heaven and earth.

Call to Confession: The Lord is near to all who call upon his name, to all who call upon him in truth. He fulfills the desires of those who fear him, he also hears their cries and saves them. Let us come to the Lord in humble confession.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Assurance of Pardon: There is therefore now no condemnation for those who ~~live~~ are in Christ Jesus who walk not according to the flesh but according to the spirit. Amen

Forgive us, O Lord for lack of love toward thee whose love has never failed, for doubt of thy goodness and unbelief in thy providence, for ingratitude for blessings received and unwillingness to give of that which thou hast given, for any dullness of insight which has kept us unaware of thy glory, and for any disobedience unto such heavenly visions as we have been able to see. Forgive us, O Lord, and may we henceforth love thee as we ought, for we ask it in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

World Wide Communion Sunday October 1971

Text Luke 14: 23, 24: "Go to the open roads and the hedgerows and force people to come in to make sure the house is full; because, I tell you, not one of those who were invited shall have a taste of my banquet."

Parable by Jesus; Man and banquet feast.

Servant goes out to tell guests all is ready.

Guests refuse, reasons; bought lot, new oxen, just got married.

Host sends servant out to bring in lame, crippled, blind from alleys, streets Still room.

Servant out again to open roads and verse above.

Parable has usually one meaning, but in this story different.

God is host. Invitations sent out to VIP. the acceptors of Christ.

Engraved invitations read, something like Mr. God requests ^{THE HOST OF} your presence at a banquet to be given at such a place at such and such a time etc.

Recipients reply with Mr. & Mrs. So and So regret they will be unable to attend because of previous engagements, new business ventures or feeling that feast and banquet will be dull and boring.

Sends servant out to hedgerows and highways so that house may be full.
F.C.

Goodly portion has come to pass.

So called followers of Jesus turning backs on God and church.

England in throes of worst ever.

Large churches almost empty.

Own country same problem.

Churches competing with everything from television to union meetings.

Then see groups of young people, people actually all ages outside church called Jesus people and shunned by church

ORG. Churches cannot understand why outside.

When churches become comfortable and self righteous those seeking Jesus cannot find him in our stained glass beautiful buildings.

Thus mass movement outside.

Jesus still calls, and this is why World Wide Com. Sunday.

Not another Communion service but join together as fellow believers in Jesus and celebrate last supper together.

Day began on Fiji Islands churches will continue around world.

All one thing in common. Body and blood of Jesus in remembrance of what he did.

Engraved invite from him engraved with nail prints, and calls again the familiar phrase, "Come to me all you who labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

May God grant that we may heed the invitation and never refuse to be a participant in his banquet. Amen.

World Wide Communion Meditation 1971

Text: Luke 14: 23 & 24; "Go to the open roads and the hedgerows and force people to come in to make sure the house is full; because I tell you, not one of those who were invited shall have a taste of my banquet."

Jesus tells a parable to those ~~xxxxxxx~~ in the 14th chapter of Luke. He is telling the story to those who are following him around the countryside. He tells of a man who gave a banquet. A rather large banquet. When the time came for the banquet he sent his servant to tell those invited, that everything was in readiness. But each one the servant encountered gave some sort of excuse. One said he had just bought a plot of ground and he must go and see it. Another said he had bought some new oxen and he wanted to try them out. Another said he had just gotten married and he could not come to the feast for this reason. The servant went back to his master and told him of the replies he had received. This made the host very angry and he flew into a rage. He told the servant to go out into the highways and the streets and the alleys of the town and to bring in the poor, the crippled, the blind and the lame. When this was done there was still room. So he told him to go out to the open roads and the hedgerows and bring in still more, and to make sure the house was full. Then he told the servant that none of those who were invited would have a taste of his banquet.

Now as is so often the case this parable is supposed to have many meanings. Actually, a parable is supposed to only have one meaning and all of the principles of the story are not to be explained away. But I think we can readily see in this story that Jesus is talking about the kingdom of God. God is the one giving the banquet and those invited are the followers of Jesus. Those followers refuse to accept the invitation because they are too concerned with the material things of life. Those who come in to the banquet are the ones considered outside the fold by the Christians.

The man giving the banquet in this story is God. He has sent out invitations to those who are the invited guests for this feast. They are the VIP's of his kingdom. Those who have accepted Christ and are his followers. But the strange thing is that after they have received the engraved invitations, you know, the ones that say Mr. God requests the honor of your presence at a banquet and feast being held on such and such a date, the recipients reply with their own engraved letter that states, Mr. And Mrs So and So regret they will be unable to attend your gala function on such and such a date. The reasons are numerous. Previous engagements, new business ventures and many other excuses. And so God becomes angry and tells his servant which is Jesus to seek out those who are considered the outcasts of society. And he sends him out to the open roads and the hedgerows to fill the house.

I think we can readily see that a goodly portion of this has come to pass. The so called invited or those who are supposedly the followers of Jesus have turned and are turning their backs upon God and his church. England right now is in the most desperate throes it has ever been in as far as the church goes. And this is all denominations. Churches with a seating capacity of 700 or more are lucky if 90 people show up for Sunday worship. In our own country the churches are having a difficult time competing with all of the other things offered on Sunday mornings. The things range from television to union meetings. We all have so many things to do and they must be done on Sunday morning instead of going to church.

Then we look around us and we see groups of young people as well as many older folk, caught up in a movement we call the Jesus people and we can't understand why this movement is outside of the Church. We cannot conceive that anything like this can take place outside of our nice stain glassed buildings. What we really do not see though is that our churches have become comfortable and self righteous and those who are truly seeking Jesus cannot see him or find him in the church structure. Thus the mass movement outside of its walls.

But Jesus is still extending the invitation of God. He has extended it to the entire world. This is what makes World Wide Communion Sunday have a real meaning and purpose. It is not merely for the opportunity to have another Communion Service. But it is to join together as fellow believers in Christ and to celebrate his Last Supper once again in unity. The day began as it does each year on the first Sunday in October with a Communion service in the Churches on the Fiji Islands. From there it spread all the way around the globe. Many thousands of people have already had communion by now, and many thousands more will have it later today. But all of us will have one thing in common and that is, we will partake of the Lord's body and blood in remembrance of what he did for us. When he extends to us the engraved invitation to come and feast, it is engraved with the nail prints in his hands and feet. And he calls to us once again that familiar phrase, "Come to me all you who labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." May God grant that we may heed the invitation and never refuse to be a ~~partaker~~ participant in his banquet. Amen.
